Citizens' Panel

Toronto Central Local Health Integration Network

Background

The Toronto Central Local Health Integration Network (TC LHIN) is responsible for funding, planning, implementing and evaluating local health services for 1.2 million residents and the tens of thousands of others who travel to Toronto for care. The 172 health service providers in the TC LHIN include hospitals, community support services, long-term care homes, a community care access centre, community health centres and mental health and addictions agencies. Engaging Citizens (the term we use to capture residents, patients, family members, consumers and caregivers) is critical to understanding how health and community services should be planned, delivered and evaluated. The TC LHIN is committed to working with the citizens of Toronto to build a local health care system that is coordinated, easy to navigate and provides timely and equitable access to care.
